(*) "Three Sides Live":

2-CD

[The North American edition and some European editions of Three Sides Live had originally featured "Paperlate", "You Might Recall", "Me and Virgil", "Evidence of Autumn" and "Open Door" in the place of live performances of "One for the Vine", "The Fountain of Salmacis" and "It / Watcher of the Skies".

The album was re-issued identically only on CD worldwide with the live performances in 1994.

On some editions, "One for the Vine" is divided in two parts. As a result, there are mistakes in the tracklisting. Part two is listed as "The Fountain of Salmacis", but "The Fountain of Salmacis" is inserted on track 6, "It / Watcher of the Skies". In conclusion, the titles of tracks 4, 5 and 6 of disc 2 should be: "One for the Vine, Pt. 1" (5:03); "Medley intro/One for the Vine, Pt. 2" (6:00); "The Fountain of Salmacis/It/Watcher of the Skies" (15:59).

While doing the 2009 remix for Three Sides Live, producer Nick Davis was informed that the version of Fountain Of Salmacis used for Three Sides Live came from tapes marked as "Houston, 22-10-1978". However, there is reason to believe this is in fact not the correct venue, as Fountain Of Salmacis was dropped from the set two months prior in the beginning of the American leg of the tour, never to re-appear. Furthermore, radio reels attributed to being from Houston have been proven to include tracks likely taken from a European venue, which would indicate that this was also the case for "Fountain Of Salmacis" (as this song was played systematically on the European leg of the tour). This would not have been the first nor the last time a Genesis radio show had been compiled from vastly different concerts (in time as well as place) but being attributed to only one of them - thus, the "Three Sides Live" shows listed above normally figure only as "Nassau, 29-11-1981", in spite of most tracks actually being from Birmingham, 23-12-1981! As such, there is no final information on the source for Fountain Of Salmacis.]

- Provocation. [Rec. 09.01.-70, for a BBC documentary about painter Michael Jackson which never aired] [Previously Unreleased, the first half would be used two years later as the fanfare/verse of 'The Fountain of Salmacis', while its second half was soon appropriated for the instrumental breakdown of "Trespass"'s 'Looking for Someone']
- Frustration. [Rec. 09.01.-70, for a BBC documentary about painter Michael Jackson which never aired] [Previously Unreleased, largely based around a Tony Banks piano theme that would only reappear five years down the road as 'Anyway' on "The Lamb Lies Down on Broadway", though it also incorporates a fragment of the unreleased early song 'Hair on the Arms and Legs', otherwise only available as a demo on the "Genesis Archive 1967-75" boxed set]
- Manipulation. [Rec. 09.01.-70, for a BBC documentary about painter Michael Jackson which never aired] [Previously Unreleased, primarily composed of several instrumental fragments that would later be assembled into 'The Musical Box' for "Nursery Cryme"]
- Resignation. [Rec. 09.01.-70, for a BBC documentary about painter Michael Jackson which never aired] [Previously Unreleased, is the only track that lacks an obvious connection to any later Genesis song, though its chord changes are at times reminiscent of the already-released 'In Hiding' (from "From Genesis to Revelation"), the instrumental section of 'Stagnation' (from "Trespass"), and 'The Musical Box']
